The Sundarban is a largest mangrove forest - currently declared by UNESCO as World Heritage Site is situated in the Southwest part of Bangladesh. In the forest region including surrounding area there is an indigenous theatre practice by the local community among other cultural activity. Rupantar - a development NGO is working for this cultural promotion as well as the community development through this media without changing the original methodology and style of presentation.

This case study will be presented by Mr. Reza Salim through AV presentation followed by a video documentary film.
